The bounts System of farming in which commons capital is employed in lifting labor to cultivate cheap lands, has not proven as successful as its promoters experfed. Price of wheat have been reduced he's w cost of production by these methods. Wille farmers, cultivating small areas are er appet by low prices they can at least make a flying and wait for better times; her the owner of Large areas be obliged to bit call the later, that is performed, and to own everything that he uses in their cutifvate in. The large of index estates become unirollable as some as advancing settlement in dose lands too valuable to be run over in pasturage with the smallest out ly for labor, a company the owners of small farms is the safe indepractical remedy for banktimes. The large purchases at whelesale rates seems to those in the Grange an imperent advantage over outslies, and this alone is guilled the reason why every farmer should join this organization. On is three of 100 acres the saving by his-chases, through the Grangei II proposly, managed; will average 350 per year. This saving, with its laterest compounded, will saving, with its interest compounded, win-ters soon reduce a considerable debt. The asking may be made ever greater by two or more farmers joining in the pur-chase of some kinds of farm implements and using them in common. The slight in inveniences resulting from such a course are more than balanced by the reduction in expense. Time is the great destroyer of most farm tools. A reaper will has as long with good treatment while cutting the grain on three or four farms, us if it were employed only on one and lay idle so much the longer time.

There le positive indvantage in having a large number of men working together. Some faint operations cannot be performed to this kipper. Or at Pendagot, Cashnel Bisaby men working singly. In getting up this life and two farmers can work togethby then working singly. In getting up his, it has or grain two farmers can work togethHO! For Adams's Shoe
